

From under one and another sun--

Across the world and still, I am sure that winter came Came and left the branches bare
--and crevassed room between trees
--and crevassed

I know the ground, too guck-ing up muddying the cows next door

Wind would have muffled the chooks reddened faces crashed through and caused to crash

At lunch and at dinner-- Soups, Stews, Potatoes, Eggplants, Squash, Carrots, Bread, Butter in company and with reddened faces noses and chins and ears chaffed and there were cold nights

And Now,

Spring.

Updates From The Orchards:

- twelve rows of boysenberries have been removed.
- five blueberry bushes have been planted.
- two Rainier cherry trees have been planted.
- one hole in the roof has shown itself.

“And the place was water”

Slow waters and all the fruit,
Matthew Layng

The Orchards

15th of May, 2018
The Orchards

14400 SE Frank Ave,
Boring, Oregon 97009

theorchards.us